Getting Around Key West

Now that you're in Key West, you probably don't need a car. Parking is challenging and expensive. After a night of drinking on Duval, you definitely don't want to drive anything. Even riding a bicycle while intoxicated will get you a DUI.

If you are lucky enough to be staying in old town, walking is your best bet.

For short trips, try a pedicab. They are a unique way to get around and your partner will give you bonus points for the romantic ride home.

Taxis are just a phone call away and arrive within minutes. Any bartender will call one for you.

Scooters and bicycles are inexpensive to rent and can be a fun way to see the island. Please ask for proper training and information about local laws. Scooters may be parked at designated motorcycle spaces and there are bicycle stands all over. If you forget to lock up your bike, you won't see it again.

Electric cars are fun to explore but still require a standard car parking spot. Electric cars are not permitted on North or South Roosevelt Blvd.

Don't drink and drive. You might spill your drink.

Angie's Junior High

Angie Baby Visits With Junior

Given that your Angie's twilight years are largely made up of Senior moments, I flung back the flaps of my oxygen tent at the chance to bask in a Junior moment.

Doesn't everyone, like me, just love Patrick Shawn Winters a/k/a Junior, that fast-talking, self-described "vertically-challenged" poolside bartender and sometime-DJ at Atlantic Shores (510 South Street)?

Of course, the only Junior I ever knew was Samples.

This, then, is my own Junior high, a sunny afternoon chat as freeflowing as my vodka intake and as freeballing as the geezer proudly stalking the clothing optional deck to display his low hangers.

Since this New Year plays a pivotal part in Junior's evolution -- he's 30, effective January 6th -- we reflect upon roads not taken, spent youth and regrets.

Happy 30th, you old piece of shit. When we scheduled this, you were 29. Here's the clitmus test: are you still limber enough to suck your own penis?

I've never tried, Angie. I usually find someone else to do it for me. If I discovered I could, I'd never leave home.

Let's talk about that: leaving home. You're one of those vacationing Northerners who unpacked your cheap luggage and never made your return flight.

I was 21, in law school. It was something my parents had kinda pushed me into, and I just decided I'd rather have a heart. It's kinda my bumper sticker now: Life is too short. Enjoy. I was actually staying here, at the Shores, and I started working here. But my family, when I didn't come back, they took it hard.

You were taking it hard, too. Good and hard. You'd also fallen in love.

Yes, Patrick was one of the reasons I chose to stay.

His name was Patrick, too?

That's actually the way I got the nickname Junior.

And now you're with Shaun.

We just celebrated our 3-year anniversary.

Congrats. Do you openly poo in front of each other?

We both prefer that not happen. Since we each have our own bathroom, the situation will never arise.

What about manscaping?

I can reach every place myself. Thank God I don't have a sweater on my back, or my boyfriend would have to help. But he likes my fuzzy ass.

I smell something -- a trend. Patrick...Shaun...you only fuck people who share one of your names?

Answer fast and don't lie: what was on your nightstand when you left the house?

Lube and poppers and my journal. If it's good, a record is kept. Shaun has many entries.

Bless your candid heart! Most people lie and say a picture of Mamaw and a religious periodical.

Oh, my magazines come in blue plastic wrap and I cannot repeat their titles in mixed company.

It appears the grill has readied my bran, prune and Metamucil potpie. How might I dress your hamburger, Junior?

Ketchup, Thousand Island dressing, lettuce tomato and extra pickles. One can never get enough pickle.

Dwelling as I prefer on the unpleasant, tell me your worst experience here bartending.

I've been at The Shores about 7 years. This is where I learned to become a pig with shoes --

-- don't elaborate! Otherwise, my Publisher won't be able to leave this issue at the airport.

-- and where I was attacked by a drunk. It was Womenfest and I was bartending. In a sundress. One belligerent customer didn't quite grasp the concept of lesbianism. We threw him out. He threw a punch. At the only one in a dress. Me. I ended up in the emergency room.

And your worst as a DJ?

Playing during Pride Tea Dance with a very crowded deck...and accidentally hitting STOP. Nothing kills a dancefloor like turning the music off. I blamed someone else for it, though.

Ahhh, a scapegoat -- the unofficial Key West mascot!

It's a wonderful island community. I love my friends and family, especially my big sister Paul. Someone's always there to help. Stub your toe, someone throws you a benefit. We take care of each other. And I could never again deal with the cold and snow of Methuen.

Shall I slap your back so you can hocker the rest of that up? Or are you lithping?

It's where I grew up, Angie: Methuen, Massachusetts. It's a small price to pay to live in Paradise, but I would kill to have a mall nearby.

What's the worst Faggot Fashion Faux Pas committed up there in, what was it, Methadone?

It was sophomore year Christmas Ball at St. John's Prep High. I wore a tux. The alterations weren't correct. The pants and sleeves were too long. I looked like a little boy in his dad's suit. Not to mention that I tried something new -- parting my hair in the middle. It failed miserably. I've burned the photo evidence.

And I now shop in the children's section.

Would that be Little Boys or Little Girls? I refer, of course, to your crowned alter ego, Sharon Beavers. Fill me in on The Beav.

Poor Sharon grew up in a small trailer in a bad part of town, constantly fighting with her 12 brothers and sisters over food and clothing. Mom was a prostitute; Sharon never knew her Dad. In fact, each sibling was by a different Dad. At 9, she vowed to make something of her life by attending Blaine Hair and Beauty School. Eventually discovered by Smyrna Emphyzema, Miss Beavers entered the Key West Closet Ball...the rest is history.

It's all downhill, trust me. Junior, my ass. I mean, when does it become Senior?

Senior comes when I hit 50. But I'll always be younger than you, Angie.

Aquarius

Jan 20 – Feb 18

Feeling alone, unwanted, un-cared for?? You are learning the hard way that if you want a real friend, you should buy a dog.

Pisces

Feb 19 – Mar 20

This is the month for you to be lazy. Never run when you can walk; never walk when you can sit; never sit when you can lie down.... and never look back - cuz there is bound to be some bastard after you.

Aries

Mar 21 – Apr 19

With Venus ascending, you will have a great boost of self-confidence. While this is good for your ego, you must try to contain yourself. Right now, your nose is so high up in the air that you will probably drown if there is a rain-shower.

Taurus

Apr 20 – May 20

There is much bad luck coming your way this month. The stars are showing that you couldn't get laid in a warehouse with a fist full of 20's.

Gemini

May 21 – Jun 20

In keeping with your astrological sign, you remain a modest little person. A modest little person with much to be modest about.

Cancer

Jun 21 – Jul 22

Work and relationships may prove difficult. Just put a paper sack over your head and wait the month out. Otherwise, you have about as much hope as Steve Irwin in a tank full of stingrays.

Leo

Jul 23 – Aug 22

When making major life choices this month, consider the possible implications. Remember, it is not the fall that hurts, it is the sudden stop at the bottom.

Virgo

Aug 23 – Sep 22

Only once every 126 years is Pluto on the wane, and Uranus is loosening. Enjoy it while you can.

Libra

Sep 23 – Oct 22

Your stars this month point to a great expansion of your intellectual endeavors. Keep it up... It's a great way to keep the mind active. Sadly, you will not yet use a word that sends the listener to a dictionary.

Scorpio

Oct 23 – Nov 21

You talk too much, really. Sit back a bit and listen. This month you risk developing a reputation for being able to compress the most words into the smallest idea of anyone in Key West.

Sagittarius

Nov 22 – Dec 21

This month you will meet a really hot, new guy. The man of your dreams. Unfortunately, he is really into fisting. Don't say I haven't told you. "Forewarned is fore-armed."

Capricorn

Dec 22 – Jan 19

Ah! The month of my ex's birthday. Though I make a point of not involving personal matters in my readings, I must say "since we broke up, I have been so miserable... It's almost like having you here."
