Ask Nana

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

I think I have a sex problem. Not a problem having it, but a problem climaxing. You see, about a year or so ago I started getting into having my boyfriend choke me a little when I am close to cumming. But lately I've noticed that it takes me forever to cum unless he's choking me. I like the sensation and I don't have any shame about it, but I also don't want to become dependant on this one behavior in order to have an orgasm. Should I be worried?

Well, see kids! I get behind on reading your letters and I miss one from David Carradine! Okay, just kidding... Listen, I'm allowed to make fun of the dead. I'm nearly dead myself! But back to the letter, listen if you like something you like it. I don't think you'll become addicted to getting choked, but you should also try to mix it up a little bit. It's more about breaking a habit. It's like I told my granddaughter when I gave her, her first vibrator for for her birthday, "Remember, this is supposed to be in addition to a man... not in place of!". As a side note, I think this is why the grand kids aren't allowed to stay over on weekends anymore. In the end, I don't think you're in any real danger, but no one wants to be "dependent" on anything in order to have an orgasm. So just keep in mind that variety is the spice of life!

Dear Nana,

I recently inherited a nice chunk of change. Not enough to retire and live the good life, but enough to pay off all my bills and have a nice nest egg. The problem is, my boyfriend doesn't want me to build such a large egg... wants to use $5000 of the money to go on a grand 10 year anniversary trip together. I want to say that it's my money and I will do as I please, but I know that will start a bad fight. Who do you think is right?

I know you boys (and girls) all want to get married, and God knows you should be able to just for all the legal and financial reasons, but NOW do you see what a hassle it can be?! Look, I think there are two big questions here. First, vacation versus savings: in these egg-sucking financial times it is never a bad idea to save. God forbid one of you loses their job in the next year, that money could literally save your life, or at least your lifestyle. But on the other hand, 10 years is a big mile marker and you should celebrate it, if you have the ability to. What about split the difference? You can spend $2000-$3000 on the vacation and put the rest into your nest egg. If he wanted to go to a tropical island for 10 days, maybe see about going for only 5 but staying in a nicer hotel than he planned on... this will save you money and marital conflict. The second question is the big one, though. Is this money really just YOUR money? If you've been together for 10 years, sharing all the burdens and the joys, the bills and the birthdays, then you really are married. If you want to right to be married, you better be ready for the "rights" of marriage. Married people have to share things. It's fine for people to keep some things individual and other things joint, but in the end.. you're a partnership or you're not. There's no way around that. Besides, what he wants to spend the money on is for BOTH of you. So if you're really a couple, act like it: fight about it until one of you gives in! ;-)

*Do you have problems? Of course you do!! Why not let Nana help you?! Send your questions to:

Women, Bears, Hedonistic Heroes & Vexing Villains

*John C. Giuliano, Executive Director
Key West Business Guild*

GLBT & Allied Chamber of Commerce Since 1978

Welcome to the 23rd Annual Key West WomenFest! The Guild is once again thrilled to be the organization producing this legendary festival for women. Thousands of women are expected to converge from Sept. 8 - 13. There will be women-only parties, water & sightseeing excursions, live music, street fair, cultural events and more.

The festivities begin with an All Welcome Opening Party at the Gardens Hotel, 526 Angela Street, from 5:30 to 8:30 PM. In addition to the many events, Womenfest will honor actress Kelly McGillis at a special Luncheon, premier the film Hannah Free with star Sharon Gless in attendance; and present comedian Dana Goldberg: Laughing Out Loud.

The entire, amazing line-up may be found in the WomenFest Event Guide located all over town and by visiting WomenFest.com. Please support the generous sponsors of WomenFest listed in print and online!

Key West Bear Fest will return from Sept. 12 – 20. The Fest will include pool parties, scavenger hunts, sailing trips, dance parties, beach party, featured restaurants, and much more. There will even be Bear Bingo! All of the events may be found at KeyWestBearFest.com.

The Guild's 27th Annual Headdress Ball will be the Gayest, Official Event of FantasyFest, and this year's "Hedonistic Heroes and Vexing Villains" theme will be one of the best yet! Dress as a Hero, Villain, or come as you are to the big tent at the Southernmost Hotel, 1319 Duval Street, on Tuesday, October 27th. We will crown the best headdresses amidst an elaborate production of live entertainment. This event is expected to sell out again this year, so please visit Keystix.com for more information and to purchase your table or individual admission today.
