LEZ
OUT

I'm at a dinner party surrounded by the most interesting collection of women and I'm reminded how important the freedom of self-expression truly is. The way it feels to be able to openly express who I am is unlike any other feeling. Conversation flows. The sense of humor and creative expression when sharing our lives is a critical part of who we are. We're all different and express ourselves through our clothing, makeup or lack thereof and hairstyles. Some are feminine. Some express themselves more masculinely. Many of these women have worn or do wear men's clothing to express who they are and what makes them feel comfortable. Being able to choose the clothing we wear was a long hard-fought battle that happened many many years ago by women, transwomen and drag queens. And we won.

And we are never going backward.

Florida is passing anti-gay legislation left and right filled with antiquated ideas focusing on issues regarding wearing gender appropriate clothing and it feels like we're sliding back into the 1970's. My trans sisters and drag queens are, once again, in the line of fire. Perhaps more so now that any time I can remember since they fought and won the right to legally exist so many years ago.

There has historically been a special bond between women and drag queens. Lesbians supported the queens in the bars. Our trans sisters started the damn gay revolution when the drag queens were being arrested and beaten. We are one family. Going to the drag shows has always been one of our favorite events in Key West. Now that's under attack here n Florida and we are not going to stand for it.

Aqua, 801, Bourbon St, Mangoes and La Te Da are some of our drag and female impersonator venue strongholds here. Lately Aqua is one of our favorite stops on a night out. The Aquanettes put on incredible professional high-end drag shows that have everything from Disney Villains to P!nk and even acrobatics on the silks with real toe shoes. Unbelievable. If you haven't seen a show add it to your list. Aqua gives you a huge variety of entertainment depending upon whether you see the 7pm show or the 9pm show. You can guess which gets more sassy. 801 is upstairs and has a great Old Florida traditional feel. You know, the drag yu grew up on. You never know WHAT you might see there! Mangos features a fabulous brunch with their drag shows. The interactive nature is a blast!! La Te Da offers a near Broadway style night of entertainment where your performer sings and dresses on stage right in front of you taking you along the story line throughout the show. A true theatrical evening. There's even drag karaoke and anything goes at Bourbon St. Be prepared to enjoy yourself and be a bit shocked when you enjoy Bourbon St.

With so many options to see drag and female impersonators in Key West, it's more important now than ever to support our sisters and enjoy their entertainment. Go out and see drag performance!! Go see them ALL while you're in town. It's important to show the community and our sisters how much we value them. Drag is art. Drag is critical visibility. Drag is freedom. I'm not willing to go backward and I'm I'll fight alongside my queens like we've done many many times before and make no mistake... we will win. Florida, we're not going anywhere. Any of us. So Lez Go Out and grab our mimosas and labrys' and see some of the best drag in the state together in Key West and all of Florida! Be safe and stand strong!!

LGBT Book Reviews by Terri Schlichenmeyer

"HARLEY QUINN: RAVENOUS" BY RACHAEL ALLEN

c.2023, Random House | $19.99 | 349 pages

Forget about it.

Put it out of your mind, don't worry about it. It's likely nothing, so let it rest. Let it go and don't be afraid because, as in the new book "Harley Quinn: Ravenous" by Rachael Allen, fear is how they make you scream.

Being a First Year intern at Gotham University was going to be The. Best.

Having completed the University's gap-year program last year, Harleen Quinzel was practically bouncing. She'd decided on research, possibly psychology, as a career and First Year program included mentorship and a chance to study some of Gotham's worst, most notorious criminal minds. The Joker, Two-Face, King Shark, Mr. Freeze, she could be assigned to any one of them at Arkham Asylum.

First Year was also going to be a bit of a relief.

Sure, she'd still have to put up with classmates like the jerk who kept asking if she was "straight now" (nope, still bi, today, tomorrow, last week) and she'd have to try to fit in, which was hard to do after what happened at the end of last year. Then, some of Harleen's friends were attacked with a fear spray that made them scream and scream, and her best friend died from it. There was gossip but Harleen had her research to enjoy, she loved her mentor, and she was fascinated by Talia al Ghul, who'd tried to assassinate Gotham's mayor. Talia was a great study-subject – even though Harleen wasn't technically supposed to ever speak to her.

Until Talia said that she knew who made the fear spray. She needed information for information, tit for tat, and she hinted that she knew the truth about Straw Man, who was rumored to haunt Arkham and who had a hand in the fear spray, so...

So then Harleen woke up in the hospital, the victim of a bad accident and amnesia. But was it an accident? Were this guy, Win, and the adorable Ivy trustworthy? And the escape of Gotham City's worst, most violent criminals... was Harleen at fault?

Let's say a movie theatre mused its film to a pulp and made a novel from the leftover cells. Or they used the mush to paint a Ben-Dot artwork panel, but in words. That's kinda how you could think of this book. As a part of the "DC Icons" franchise, "Harley Quinn: Ravenous" almost screams graphic novel or comic book.

So what's the problem?

Nothing, as long as you know that before you pick it up because that's the sort of feel you'll get in what only looks like a regular novel. Nothing, if you relish a story that starts with action and peppers it with chaos before dropping readers into a land of dark monsters and crime. Nothing at all, if you've read author Rachael Allen's novel-before-this-one – otherwise, you'll be awash in humor, feminism, superheroes, and scrambling to find your footing. Be warned.

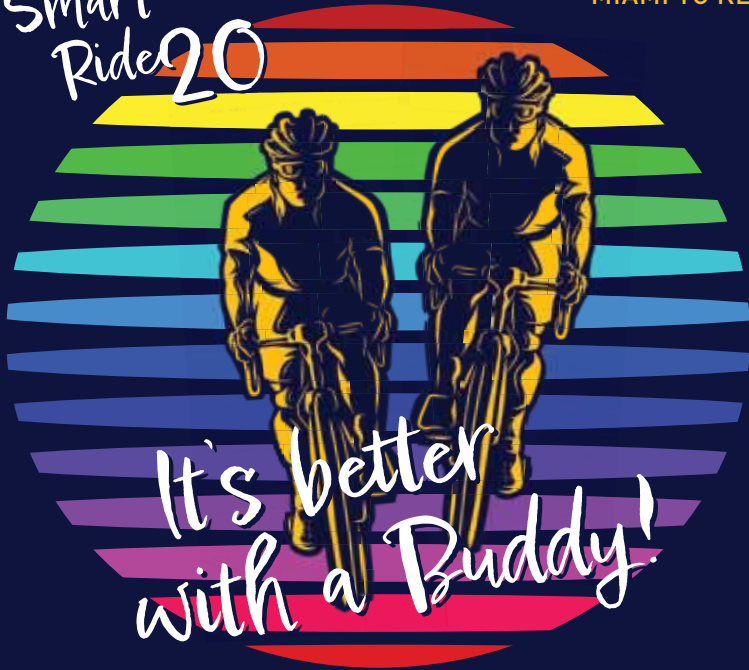

Overall, love a funny, crazy-paced dark-Gotham novel with a feminist warrior, you'll devour "Harley Quinn: Ravenous." As for a bookmark...? Nah, forget about it.

MY BIG GAY LIFE

Brad Loekle

MOUSE TRAP

Full disclosure: I've never been a Disney gay. I don't dislike Disney in anyway but I do dislike amusement parks in general. I was always more partial to creepy, traveling carnivals with sexually dangerous ride operators. Many of which were more than willing to operate me as a ride when I was a young whisp of a thing. (Fuck you. I was!) But since your little Floridian Fuhrer first picked his fight with Disney, I've been waiting for can of whoop-ass, with Mickey on the label, to be opened on Ronny. One can only assume that, since he had his wedding ceremony AT the damn Disney Park, that this is a personal vendetta. Were the Sebastian crab cakes cold when they served them? Did his wife get caught giving goofy a blowie in the broom closet? Were the mops from Fantasia watching and rubbing one out in their buckets? Something must have happened. Is he still furious that everyone at his wedding, even his own mom, wanted more pictures with Gaston than with him? Imagine being at your own wedding, dressed up in your little military drag, and your wife and mom and every other woman you've wanted to sleep with at your wedding is fawning over a non-union Gaston (who is gay... and Ronny knows it but his mommy and wife don't care). And, in that moment, Ronny DeSantis realized he was not Gaston. He wasn't even the Beast. He was LeFou. He IS LeFou. So vowed that day that if he could somehow become governor of Florida he would reap his revenge on Gay-ston and Goofy and those pervy Fantasia mops. He'd show them who wears the pants! Which is not hard to do at Disney since 2/3 of all their characters are pants-less. What he didn't expect was that a cartoon mouse would be smarter than him. We all expected it. But, then again, we all know you don't pronounce "Thai food"... "Thigh food" (google it. Ronny is a fucking weirdo).

And since Ronny will undoubtedly lose his case against Disney, and they will whoop his more than ample yet some-how still concave ass in court, I think Disney should meet Ronny on his own playing field. Since Ronny is also a fan of no-permit concealed-carry weapons laws, I think Disney should offer to settle out of court. But, rather settle IN the amusement park. On Gay Days weekend. And if Ronny can make it from one end of the park to the other without Mickey, Minnie, Pluto, or 10,000 drag queens shooting him in self-defense, he wins. Seems like a perfectly DeSantis way to settle a disagreement.

Regardless of the outcome. I say we all go out for some "Thigh" food afterwards.

Brad Loekle's latest comedy special & album, "Brash Boys Club" is available on Amazon, AppleTV, iTunes, and other platforms. He was a semi-finalist on NBC's "Last Comic Standing". He can be seen every week on TruTV's "World's Dumbest", has written for Joan Rivers on E! "Fashion Police" & tours internationally. His book, "My Big Gay Life" is available on Amazon. # LONG LIVE THE QUEENS

by Miss Bowwée

Key West is known for its “anything goes and everyone welcome” vibe. In fact, that is how I often describe Key West; not a city, it’s a vibe! I have been touring to Key West for over 6 years and have really come to call it a second home in a lot of ways. My connections with many of the local performers, business owners, and restauranteurs is held in as high regard as, well, family.

This June is pride month here and nationwide. The phrase “now more than ever” is invoked often at these events, as we are no stranger to the turbulent road towards equality and freedom. I would amend that statement to be “now is the time”. Now is the time to show up at pride and more importantly show up to the voting booth. I believe Key West could lead the state of Florida in this appeal for freedom and equality, and continued visibility!

Can you picture a Duval street with no drag queens greeting locals and tourists? Can you picture venues having to close the windows and shades that permit people to see drag shows happening inside, less a child should see from the street. Picture the drag race with no drag! The pride parade with no drag queens! This is an attempt to legally throw not only drag queens, but your queer family, back into the closet! I honestly don't care about your politics, this bill (SB 1438/HB 1423) and several others alongside it, is discriminatory and should be stopped. They say drag queens will ruin the fabric of society. I know no drag queen who would dare ruin fabric!

Key West is a vibe. It is music. It is live performances. It is great food. It is dancing in the streets. It is sunset. It is Fantasy Fest. It is the shoe drop on NYE. It is historic. It is queer. Queer by definition means strange, odd, peculiar, or when referring to sexuality; it means to act against heteronormative behavior. Key West has always been a home to the queer, whether straight or gay. It has a certain gravitational pull. It finds us, and we embrace it.

Key West is strong and pride is a time to show just how strong. I am wishing everyone a happy Pride. May we all see and honor just how vibrant this island is. Feel the vibe and fly that rainbow as high and as proudly as you can. Be safe. Remember, if you can't choose love, choose respect.

ASK NANA

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

My boyfriend farts in bed. A lot. I know it's a natural body function but can't he control it or at least go in the other room? It grosses me out and it makes the bedroom smell terrible. Am I over reacting?

I don't know if "over reacting" is the right phrase. But you're definitely being a pissy little bitch, if that puts it into perspective. Yes, it is a natural body function (and a medically necessary one). Yes, farts do smell. Yours too, princess. It's not like he's holding your face to his backside and forcing you to go to the scene of the crime like a bullying older brother. He's farting. And if you plan on having a boyfriend or a partner as you continue to age, you should get ready for a lot worse than a cabbage fart. Next time he farts just spray some Glade and take a whiff of some poppers. You'll feel better... or, at least, lightheaded for 37 seconds until you fall back to sleep. Good luck!

Dear Nana,

I'm a big lover of travel. I always budget for at least 3 big vacations a year and like to go to new places near and far. My boyfriend likes travel but would be happy with one trip a year and saving the rest of that money for retirement. What are your thoughts on living in the now vs. saving for the future.

Well, kiddo, you have to do both. But travel is something best done in the now. Trust me, people who wait until they're 70 to start seeing the world suddenly realize that seeing the world with the knees and back of a 70-year-old is damn difficult! However, you don't also want to become a 70-year-old with a scrapbook full of amazing memories from around the world... that you keep in the shopping cart you live out of. See as much as you can as young as you can because life goes by quicker than you think. Keeping in mind that you don't need to see the whole world by next Christmas. Pace yourself. Though probably see places like Venice, Italy sooner rather than later. Because pretty soon it's going to need scuba gear to check in to your hotel.

DO YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? OF COURSE YOU DO! WHY NOT LET NANA HELP YOU?!
