MAN ABOUT TOWN

T

The holidays feel a little different in Key West than they do in most of the country. The biggest difference is how warm it is. When we think of winter holidays, we envision snow, a nip in the air, hot chocolate, a roaring fire in the fireplace, and of course, santa in his sleigh delivering toys down the chimney.

Of course, very few homes in Key West have a chimney, so parents come up with a multitude of stories as to how Santa will get into the house.

If you need help getting into the holiday spirit, here are a few things you can do to feel merry and gay (well, you already have the gay part!)

Check out the Christmas “tree” on the harbor walk, right at the end of William Street. This “tree” is made up of lobster traps (I’m hoping that’s what they are, I am not a fisherman) stacked up and decorated. While you’re there, walk along Lazy Way and look at all the palm trees lit up.

The Key West lighted bike ride is a fun way to show your holiday spirit while losing a few post thanksgiving pounds. December 4

The holiday parade is a fun, family friendly event, that blends traditional holiday themes with the quirkiness of Key West. December 7

The 29th Annual Lighted Boat Parade at Schooner Wharf Bar is where you can sit and watch all the well decorated boats pass by, all lit up for the holidays. December 14

If that isn’t enough to get you into the holiday spirit, stop by Bourbon Street Pub on Christmas day. They usually have the snow machine going that day. What a great picture you will have of you in a t-shirt, shorts and sandals, while sitting in a snow storm!

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

What is the most important information I should know about BIKTARVY®?

BIKTARVY may cause serious side effects:

- ▶ Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV and stop taking BIKTARVY, your HBV may suddenly get worse. Do not stop taking BIKTARVY without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to monitor your health.

Who should not take BIKTARVY?

Do not take BIKTARVY if you take:

- ▶ dofetilide
- ▶ rifampin
- ▶ any other medicines to treat HIV-1

What are the other possible side effects of BIKTARVY?

Serious side effects of BIKTARVY may also include:

- ▶ Changes in your immune system. Your immune system may get stronger and begin to fight infections. Tell your healthcare provider if you have any new symptoms after you start taking BIKTARVY.
- ▶ Kidney problems, including kidney failure. Your healthcare provider should do blood and urine tests to check your kidneys. If you develop new or worse kidney problems, they may tell you to stop taking BIKTARVY.
- ▶ Too much lactic acid in your blood (lactic acidosis), which is a serious but rare medical emergency that can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: weakness or being more tired than usual, unusual muscle pain, being short of breath or fast breathing, stomach pain with nausea and vomiting, cold or blue hands and feet, feel dizzy or lightheaded, or a fast or abnormal heartbeat.

- ▶ Severe liver problems, which in rare cases can lead to death. Tell your healthcare provider right away if you get these symptoms: skin or the white part of your eyes turns yellow, dark “tea-colored” urine, light-colored stools, loss of appetite for several days or longer, nausea, or stomach-area pain.

The most common side effects of BIKTARVY in clinical studies were diarrhea (6%), nausea (5%), and headache (5%). Tell your healthcare provider if you have any side effects that bother you or don't go away.

What should I tell my healthcare provider before taking BIKTARVY?

- ▶ All your health problems. Be sure to tell your healthcare provider if you have or have had any kidney or liver problems, including hepatitis virus infection.
- ▶ All the medicines you take, including prescription and over-the-counter medicines, antacids, laxatives, vitamins, and herbal supplements. BIKTARVY and other medicines may affect each other. Keep a list of all your medicines and show it to your healthcare provider and pharmacist, and ask if it is safe to take BIKTARVY with all of your other medicines.
- ▶ If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if BIKTARVY can harm your unborn baby. Tell your healthcare provider if you become pregnant while taking BIKTARVY.
- ▶ If you are breastfeeding (nursing) or plan to breastfeed. Do not breastfeed. HIV-1 can be passed to the baby in breast milk.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Ask your healthcare provider if BIKTARVY is right for you.

Please see Important Facts about BIKTARVY, including important warnings, on the following page.

Because HIV doesn't change who you are.

What is BIKTARVY?

BIKTARVY is a complete, 1-pill, once-a-day prescription medicine used to treat HIV-1 in adults. It can either be used in people who have never taken HIV-1 medicines before, or people who are replacing their current HIV-1 medicines and whose healthcare provider determines they meet certain requirements.

BIKTARVY does not cure HIV-1 or AIDS. HIV-1 is the virus that causes AIDS.

IMPORTANT FACTS

This is only a brief summary of important information about BIKTARVY[®] and does not replace talking to your healthcare provider about your condition and your treatment.

MOST IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT BIKTARVY

BIKTARVY may cause serious side effects, including:

- Worsening of hepatitis B (HBV) infection. If you have both HIV-1 and HBV, your HBV may suddenly get worse if you stop taking BIKTARVY. Do not stop taking BIKTARVY without first talking to your healthcare provider, as they will need to check your health regularly for several months.

ABOUT BIKTARVY

BIKTARVY is a complete, 1-pill, once-a-day prescription medicine used to treat HIV-1 in adults. It can either be used in people who have never taken HIV-1 medicines before, or people who are replacing their current HIV-1 medicines and whose healthcare provider determines they meet certain requirements.

BIKTARVY does not cure HIV-1 or AIDS. HIV-1 is the virus that causes AIDS.

Do NOT take BIKTARVY if you also take a medicine that contains:

- dofetilide

LGBT Book Reviews by Terri Schlichenmeyer

“TOIL & TROUBLE” BY AUGUSTEN BURROUGHS

c.2019, St. Martin’s Press | $27.99 | 320 pages

Halloween is over this year, but not for you.

Your decorations are still up because the season is young. There’s plenty of time left for skeletons, monsters, and wind that howls like a banshee. You can still hear spirits high-stepping in your upstairs. Most important of all: as in the new book, “Toil & Trouble” by Augusten Burroughs, witches walk among us.

At just eight years old, Augusten Burroughs learned that he was a witch.

Riding the bus home from school, he’d had the sudden realization that something happened to his grandmother; he knew without knowing, saw without seeing, and he rushed to his mother in a panic. Matter-of-factly, she calmed him; she was a witch, too, and had sensed that her younger son had the “Gift.”

“It was the strongest bond my mother and I had when I was young...” Burroughs says.

Most people think of Hollywood magic or crones on brooms when they think of witches but those are just myths, he says. The truth comes in three parts: witches have existed for as long as have humans. They’ve “always been misunderstood.” And yes, “witches are real,” and each is a little different, as Burroughs learned when his Aunt Curtis (a witch) introduced him to a root woman (another witch) who told him something about his future.

Witchcraft isn't perfect, though. It didn't help much while Burroughs was bullied as a boy. Sometimes, spells took longer to work than he hoped they might. It isn't for revenge or hurtful purposes, although there is a way to influence how things turn out and patience is key. "Magick" worked when he wanted to move from Manhattan to his beloved New England; it didn't work when he wanted to talk to a friend on the phone. It warned him of a possibly-bad situation near his new home, but there were no details. It helps find lost objects, but not lost confidence.

And when his magick went missing as his husband fell seriously ill, Burroughs learned that "Things are not as they appear. They are much, much more."

When starting "Toil & Trouble," you could be forgiven for thinking that author Augusten Burroughs is pulling your leg. He does, after all, write with humor and this witch stuff is conjured, right? Isn't it?

After a few more pages, it won't matter. You'll be so engrossed by this tale of the magick of life and so caught up in the stories Burroughs tells, that witchcraft really becomes no big deal, no less normal than blue eyes or brown hair. And while it's the main reason for this book and everything attached to it, it's more of a magically delightful, meaningful backdrop for tales of family, growing up gay, falling in love with a man, finding home, and forgiving.

"Toil & Trouble" is not a dark-and-stormy-night kind of book, and it won't make you jumpy. There are, however, a few hair-raising pages that'll make you squirm but mostly, it's funny and sweet and charming, a cauldron full of goodness.

MY BIG GAY LIFE

Brad Loekle

THE RETURN OF EGGBERT

For those who have been reading my ramblings for a long time, you might remember that, as a child, I had a run in with a festive Christmas egg. For those who are reading me for the first time, I already sound like a raving lunatic. So, let me explain a bit.

When I was an adolescent in Upstate New York, there was a massive garden supply center that turned into a Christmas store in the winter. You'd go there for your tree, decorations, and to see Eggbert the Magical Egg. Eggbert (if that is, in fact, his real name) was a large animatronic Egg that sat on a throne and would talk to the children. He wore a crown and a festive holiday vest. What does an Egg have to do with Christmas? Fuck all if I know! But there he was. Some satanic hold-over from Easter, here to ruin your Winter Wonderland. Eggbert was voiced by a man. I have no idea to this day if it was some non-union actor who'd fallen so far down the ladder and so far off the wagon that this gig seemed like a good idea, or if Eggbert was the owner's black sheep relative. Or maybe Eggbert was actually a talking Egg. Perhaps there was a chicken farm in the county that kept its incubators too close to the powerlines and then, one day, BAM! Eggbert.

Anyway, when I was about twelve, my mother and I were shopping for assorted Christmas bobbles and I decided to take a minute to soak up the yolk and see what the old Egg was up to. I don't know if Eggbert had gone through a particularly rough divorce that autumn, but all I do know is he was NOT in the mood for us kids' shit. He was making bitchy comments about this little kid's coat and that little kid's blank stare. Of course the kid is staring at you... you're a fucking egg. Get used to it, you Humpty Dumpty dickhead. I didn't like the way he was talking to the kids younger than me, so I decided to fight fire with fire. I started commenting on his shitty little show choir vest and his preposterously feeble legs. Needless to say, things escalated quickly and ended with me screaming things like, “You’re not magical! You’re just an asshole behind a two-way mirror who did poorly in school and now this is your life! Merry Christmas!!”, as security pulled me out of his “throne room”.

I was obviously on an Eggbert watch list after that and never allowed near his egg-cellency again. A few years later, Eggbert was retired. No one ever explained why. The local papers said that he had retired to a farm to be with his family but that seemed like a snow job to me. My guess is he probably harassed one of the elves that helped move the kids in and out of his room. Though why elves were helping a possessed egg, I’ll never know.

Flash to today. I’m returning to my bleak hometown for one last time, as my parents pack up their lives and leave the area for warmer climates. And guess who came out of retirement last year? That’s right, his runny highness himself: Eggbert!

I am fully aware that I am a forty-one-year-old man. But I want you to be fully aware that I will absolutely be visiting that egg again. And so help me god, If I see him fat shame even one little adolescent butterball, I will jump the royal fence and crack that egg open like it was “your brain on drugs”... any questions?

Brad Loekle was a semi-finalist on NBC’s “Last Comic Standing”. He can be seen every week on TruTV’s “World’s Dumbest”, has written for Joan Rivers on E! “Fashion Police” & tours internationally. His book, “My Big Gay Life” is available on Amazon and at www.bradloekle.com

STAY SAFE RIDE SMART

A bicycle is a great way to get around, but stay safe by following the rules of the road.

- A bicycle is like any other vehicle, so you must follow the rules of the road.
 - Bicycles must follow all traffic controls such as signs and signals.
 - Bicycles cannot travel the wrong way down a one way street.
 - Bicycles must be ridden on the right hand side of a two way street.
 - You must signal all turns with hand signals.
 - Headsets cannot be worn while cycling.
 - Riding a bike while under the influence can get you a DUI in Florida.
- Lights are required between sunset and sunrise
 - A white light is required in front and a red light in the rear.
- Riding on the sidewalk or crosswalk is permitted but with these provisions
 - Pedestrians have the right of way. Yield to pedestrians.
 - When passing pedestrians, you must signal your intent before doing so.
- Anyone under the age of 16 must wear a helmet.

Here are a few additional tips that you may find helpful.

- Lock up your bike at all times. If not, you'll probably be walking home.
 - Pass the lock through the frame and the front tire.
 - Be careful not to lock your bike to an adjoining bike by accident.
 - If you lock your bike to private property, it may be impounded.
- When approaching occupied cars, be ready to react if the door opens.

Enjoy your time seeing the best of Key West!

Welcome Naked Men

Pup (Kevin) and I (The Naked Realtor) are very excited to share this 2019 Bone Island Bare It All with our many returning friends. We are excited to introduce to the continuing newcomers to our weekend of all-male naturist fun as only Key West can offer! We promise you will leave after the weekend with new friends, new experiences, and maybe just a little worn out. We hope you will enjoy all the fun we have in store for you.

Bone Island was started thirteen years ago as a way to gather naturist men for a weekend of camaraderie and share with them the beauty and fun of Key West. It wouldn't happen without the support and encouragement of my friends in the local community. This event is without question a community effort and I thank all of our business partners for their continued assistance. They welcome us on their properties with open arms, and they and their staffs provide us fantastic venues to enjoy our weekend together. During your weekend, please show your support to all of our sponsors and partners, including the servers and service people who are working hard to make sure you have a fun and comfortable visit.

I'm very proud of how far Bone Island Bare It All has come since the first weekend in December 2006. Each time, more men discover our unique brand of fun and go home telling their naked friends about it. I'm also thrilled with our distinction as one of The Huffington Post's "Top 13 LGBT things to do in 2013" and 2015. Finally, thank YOU for making Bone Island Bare It All the joy it is. Without you guys, I'd just be sitting in my backyard naked. So, thanks for choosing to make the trip down the Keys. Remember the sunscreen and to play safe. Enjoy our Bone Island!

“We, the undersigned laity of the Florida Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, are deeply grieved and heartbroken by results of the Special Session of the General Conference in St. Louis. ...We regret how the United Methodist Church has hurt our LGBTQIA+ family for decades, and how the recent adoption of the Traditional Plan has caused further pain already experienced by the LGBTQIA+ community. We believe the life and teaching of Jesus Christ reflects God’s love for all. ...”

“We wish to remain in dialogue with those who have different voices, and pray that we can become one church together celebrating and respecting the beautiful diversity of all God’s people wherever they may live. ...”

ASK NANA

E-mail your questions to nana@keywestgayrag.com

Dear Nana,

My friend keeps asking for money and it's becoming a problem. He already owes me almost $2000.00 but still keeps asking me for little sums here and there. At this point I honestly don't want to be around him because it pisses me off so much. Should I just end the friendship and cut my losses?

My mother used to always say that the easiest way to get rid of people is to loan them money. Banking and friendship don't mix well. That's why most people hate bankers! Listen, it's clear that your friend isn't taking the hint. And it's also clear that even if they are, they just don't care. So, it's time to lay down the law: if they want to still be friends with you, it's time to start paying you back. $50 a week will do. And if that doesn't work for them, then having them in your life shouldn't work for you. You'll either get back a friend or have learned a $2000.00 lesson. But either way you'll be better off.

ASK NANA

Dear Nana,

My partner and I just got married last year and we're really torn about whose family Christmas to go to. My folks live in Georgia and his live in Chicago. They both adamantly want us to come to each of their Christmases. We've split up before, on Christmases, so we could each keep our families happy but it seems unfair now that we're married. Help!

How, my little Jingle Belles, if you only knew how common this problem is! When your children marry someone local, and you both stay close to home your whole life, parents get to have their Christmas pudding and eat it to. But the majority of your majestic man-lovers flee your hometowns as fast as your delicate little feet will take you. So, this happens a lot. Unfortunately, you got both your families in the habit of you two splitting up in order to make all of them happy. You put the brunt of the burden on yourselves. They probably don't realize, but that's unfair on their part. If both families welcomed you in wholeheartedly as each other's partner, then they both have to realize your marriage now has to come first in both your lives. So that might mean they don't get to carve up your Christmases whichever way they want. There probably is no right answer for everyone in this scenario. You need to both talk to each other first and decide what works for your marriage. Then you need to offer up either your one decision or your few options that you come up with. Maybe you alternate Christmases at each home? Maybe you start hosting all of them at your place for Christmas? Maybe all the families get together for a destination Christmas each year? Maybe you move to Central America and start a new life under assumed names? All I'm saying is there are options.

DO YOU HAVE PROBLEMS? OF COURSE YOU DO! WHY NOT LET NANA HELP YOU?!

WHORE--SCOPES

AQUARIUS JAN 20 - FEB 18

You're so bad in bed that your hand falls asleep while you're masturbating!

PISCES FEB 19 - MAR 20

Do you ever get sick of hearing "Is it in?"

ARIES MAR 21 - APR 19

Confucius said that every exit is also an entrance but your boyfriend still says no.

TAURUS APR 20 - MAY 20

You're like a bank account. Without a lot of money, you don't generate much interest.

GEMINI MAY 21 - JUN 20

You should take up playing pool. It's the only chance you'll get at reaching into pockets and grabbing balls.

CANCER JUN 21 - JUL 22

Spreading rumors? At least you're spreading something else besides your legs.

LEO JUL 23 - AUG 22

Many guys fantasize about sleeping with two guys. You wish you could sleep with two guys in a year.

VIRGO AUG 23 - SEP 22

You are just like Santa. You only come once a year.

LIBRA SEP 23 - OCT 22

You're so ugly you have to buy flowers for your own hand.

SCORPIO OCT 23 - NOV 21

At this sacred time of year, it's good to know that you can turn wine into barf.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 22 - DEC 21

You know the date's not going well when he says he has to stop and buy D batteries on the way home.

CAPRICORN DEC 22 - JAN 19

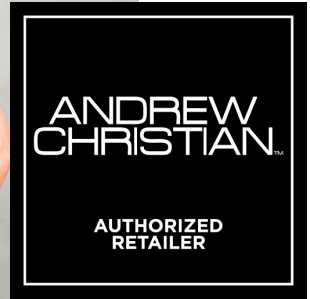

At least the boss touched you inappropriately today. Too bad you're self employed.
